

The Jersey Cuff is a patented product produced by the Jersey Tactical Corp. The cuff was designed to resolve many deficiencies found in our competitor's products. For decades there have been many problems with the flexible restraints on the market. They were always difficult to deploy, place on a subject or carry multiple restraints without falling out of pockets or getting snared on obstacles. The Jersey Cuff was designed and improved by operators who are currently using these restraints in the field and have had negative experiences with other disposable restraints.

The Jersey Cuff out performs our competition because of the following reasons:

- Almost every flexible restraint on the market is currently being defeated by criminals. They are being "slipped", broken or picked. The Jersey cuff was designed to prevent most of these issues.
- Compact in size, approx. the size of a cigar prior to being deployed, approximately 1/5 the size of most disposable restraints on the market.
- A self leveling ring for adjustment that almost eliminates the problem of over tightening the restraint and cutting off circulation.
- One "pull tab" instead of multiple, allows the operator to secure both hands with one pull.
- A non slip hand grip which prevents the operator from losing their grip when their hands are wet, muddy, cold or they are wearing gloves.
- The cuffs are easily disassembled and reattached in multiple configurations to fit any of your needs during emergency situations.
- Allows the operator to secure two Jersey Cuffs together to form leg restraints or prisoner transport belt.
- They are sold separately for concealment purposes or as "Tac Pac" which tri-folds containing 4 Jersey Cuffs and a Safety Cutter in the bottom.
- A locking system that offers more resistance than our competitor's which will lower the potential of over tightening the Jersey Cuff reducing potential of injury and civil liability to the user/employer.
- A stainless steel locking device.
- High strength, UV stabilized material.
- Made by the American worker for the American Warrior.
